

The Blessing

When the floods came a few months ago one of the most memorable sites on news broadcast was the HOPE building from Lighthouse Christian School floating down I-24. The building was one of eighteen from the school that Devan attends that was damaged or destroyed. And, many asked why? Well, the right people saw the broadcast and yesterday a team of many hundreds showed up at Lighthouse in the early morning to announce that the television program team of Extreme Makeover with Ty Pennington will be rebuilding the whole preschool this week. The streets were closed and literally hundreds of local electric, water, and gas company employees along with a host of Metro police and other security teams converged on the school to make the announcement. Within an hour many semi's and every size and shape of utility truck and other large equipment and operators were all over the campus ready to begin the task. The school will be complete in seven days and no wonder with all the help that they have engaged.

When people asked about the Hope building floating and then finally breaking apart on the expressway there was no way to know then that God would bring this amazing team here to do this work and that the faithfulness of God through this precious team of staff and educators at Lighthouse Christian School would be broadcast for the world to see. God used what looked like a total disaster to open the hearts eyes of so many who have joined forces this week to make a miracle happen right before our eyes. What a blessing. Thank you, Father.

Please pray for these hundreds of people this week here to help that they will be touched as they are ministered to by the staff and students of Lighthouse Christian School.
